PROPOSES REPEAL OF CIVIL SERVICE LAW

Jackson Countian Seeks Repeal of Present Law With View to Substituting Another in Which Non-competitive Exams. Would be Eliminated---Proposal Starts Jangle.

By Associated Press.
Columbus, O., Jan. 4.—Ohio's 81st General Assembly convened this morning and organized by electing officers of both the Senate and House, selected at previous caucuses of Republican members, who control both houses.

Charles D. Conover, of Champaign county, newly elected speaker of the house, in his address immediately after taking the chair, made a plea for abandonment of partisanship during the present session and the co-operation of both Republicans and Democrats in the interest of "writing laws which the people demand."

Strong intimation came from the Democratic side of the House that a number of minority representatives will join with the Republican majority, during this session, in amending much legislation passed by the last Democratic legislature.

Even before the assembly formally convened today a movement, initiated by Representative W. S. Hoy, of Jackson, looking to suspending the present civil service law and immediate enactment of another which would eliminate non-competitive examinations, created much discussion among representatives and senators.

Republican leaders did not look with favor on the proposed measure, but Dr. Hoy conducted an active campaign among members and gave positive assurance that the proposition will be submitted to the legislature either today or tomorrow.

A conference of leaders was held this afternoon. The leaders tried in vain to dissuade Dr. Hoy from his intentions.

"Someone will sit on that proposition and smother it," said Senator Howard, of Belmont, majority leader in the Senate.

"I am quite sure the joint resolution will not be introduced in this body. We don't want to start such a thing as that until we get Governor Willis' message and hear his views."

Both houses planned to meet in joint session tomorrow to canvas the vote for state officials. Leaders declared adjournment would be taken then until next week, after Governor Willis' inauguration. It was considered unlikely that any business, other than routine, will be transacted until then.

Supreme Court Justice R. M. Wainwright administered the oath of office to both representatives and senators.

Old members of the Senate, who had been re-elected, found their desks decorated today with huge bouquets of flowers. The House galleries were filled to capacity with spectators, watching the legislative wheels begin to move. The Senate attracted fewer persons.

Secretary of State Graves called the house to order this morning, and Lieutenant Governor Greenlund presided over the Senate.

John P. Maynard, of Lima, was elected clerk of the House, and W. E. Halley, of Greenville, clerk of the Senate, with other assistants and attendants as designated by Republican and Democratic caucuses.

SENATE FACES WEIGHTY BILL

Washington, Jan. 4.—Senator Root in debate today, after the filing in the Senate of the minority report of the government ship purchase bill by the Commission on Commerce, declared no measure of equal consequence had been brought before Congress in many years.

It was proposed, he said, to put the government into foreign trade at a time of extreme danger. The result must be, he insisted, to place in question the good faith of the United States itself, in carrying goods to belligerents.

GARDNER STILL ON RAMPAGE

Washington, Jan. 4.—Representative Gardner, urging his proposal to investigate the military preparedness of the nation, told the House Military Commission today that the "entire field army militia, regulars and all, of the United States would just about garrison Paris and the United States today owns little more than half of the number of guns Russia had at the battle of Mukden."

He quoted figures at length to show that the combined force of regulars and national guardsmen would form a battle line 65 miles long, 2-3 of the way around greater New York.

trenches near Sennheim, as well as the town of Steinbach.

These trenches later were recaptured, the German statement says.

Except for this fighting along the eastern end of the battle front, there is little activity.

SEEK TO STOP SHIPMENT OF WAR SUPPLIES

By Associated Press.
Washington, Jan. 4.—Delegations from New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and Baltimore, among them representatives of the German-American Alliance and the Ancient Order of Hibernians, appeared today before the House Foreign Affairs committee to favor pending congressional resolutions to stop exports of war materials to the European belligerents.

C. J. Hexamer, of Philadelphia, president of the German-American Alliance, presented memorials adopted by that organization in many states, urging the adoption of one of the resolutions.

The principal evil growing out of the situation is the damage being done to our commerce," said he. "We should have an immediate inquiry by a special commerce commission into our trade with European countries. We should demand that our neutral trade be allowed to go on without interference."

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE OPEN

By Associated Press.
London, January 4.—The London Stock Exchange reopened for business today after having been closed on account of the war since July 30.

Severe restrictions were placed upon trading in order to prevent anything approaching panic selling or the unloading of securities by hostile countries.

The session opened with a round of ringing cheers and to the strains of the national anthem, heartily sung by a rather smaller attendance than usual.

LEAVES FORTUNE TO GOOD CAUSE

By Associated Press.
New York, Jan. 4.—Miss Grace Hoadley Dodge, the philanthropist, who died in this city, December 27 last, left more than $1,200,000 to public and religious institutions, under her will filed today for probate.

NEW YORKER KILLS WIFE

By Associated Press.
New York, Jan. 4.—Mrs. Frances Collins was shot and killed early today at her home where she lived with her husband, William, and two brothers. Her husband is locked up charged with murder.

Collins, returning home, heard her voice in an adjoining bedroom. He went to the door, peeped through the key hole and saw her sitting in a man's lap. Collins demanded admission, was refused, and it is charged, fired through the panel of the door. Mrs. Collins fell to the floor fatally wounded.

The man in whose lap Mrs. Collins was sitting was said to be her brother George.

Dry's Carry St. Clairville.
St. Clairville, O., Jan. 4.—St. Clairville, the seat of Belmont county, voted dry under the Beal law, with a majority of 127. The dry forces cast 263 votes while the wets had only 136.

NO HOPE OF SETTLEMENT

By Associated Press.
Cleveland, Jan. 4.—That the eastern Ohio coal operators consider it useless to make further efforts to negotiate a settlement of the strike, which has been on since the first of April last; that many of the operators favor going on record as opposed to any future recognition of the United Workers' organization, and that a number of companies plan to abandon the Ohio field, were statements made by operators, who were here today to attend the meeting of the Operators' Association.

GERMANS FALL BEFORE BAYONET

By Associated Press.
London, Jan. 4.—A remarkable night battle on the banks of the Bzura river is described in the Russian communication, which says that German forces crossed the river, were attacked, and out the firing.

It is asserted Germans were killed in the battle.

TWO NEGROES ARE LYNCHED

By Associated Press.
Montgomery, Alabama, January 4.—Two negroes, Ed and Will Smith, were taken from the Wetumpka jail today and lynched by a mob. They had been accused of implication in the murder of R. A. Stillwell, an Elmore county farmer.

Soon after reports reached the Governor's office that a mob had overpowered the jail attaches and removed the negroes, Montgomery militiamen hurried toward the scene in automobiles. However, they were too late to prevent the lynching.

Stillwell was shot several days ago while guarding his barns against thieves. Blood hounds led directly, it was declared, to the cabin of the Smith negroes, who were arrested.

COX URGES CURB ON EXTRAVAGANCE

Governor, in Message to Solons, Praises Budget Plan, Discusses Fiscal Affairs, Points With Pride to Unprecedented Balance in General Revenue Fund, and Revives Proposition For State Departmental Building and Governor's Residence.

Columbus, Jan. 4.—Governor James M. Cox today submitted the following message to both branches of the Ohio general assembly:

To the General Assembly:

The past two years have carried us through the evolutionary changes in our state government growing out of the new constitution. The mandates issued by the people have been respected. The enlarged legislative authority has been exercised by the general assembly. The laws are in operation and the social and economic conditions that have resulted are so advantageous as to need no elaboration in this document. Two years ago the people were congratulated upon what we believed to be a manifestation of their wisdom in adapting themselves, through governmental agency, to industrial developments; and I take this occasion to extend further felicitations now that there has been a demonstration by practical results.

It is the fiscal affairs of the state that I desire primarily to discuss. There is in the general revenue fund of the state on Dec. 31, 1914, $8,654,762.98, a sum unprecedented in size. The balances in that fund as of the same calendar date in eight previous years were as follows:

December 31, 1913	$8,187,805.20
December 31, 1912	7,926,207.98
December 31, 1911	5,929,445.24
December 31, 1910	4,743,834.61
December 31, 1909	4,892,669.95
December 31, 1908	5,973,287.59
December 31, 1907	5,889,250.61
December 31, 1906	2,996,294.49

In addition to the general revenue fund there were in the treasury Dec. 31, 1914, monies under the following classifications:

Highway fund	$2,127,012.84
Sinking fund	82,184.71
Common school fund	18,724.42
Liquor license fund	321,866.46
Special school fund	29,099.09
Total	$2,568,787.52
General revenue fund	$8,654,762.98
Grand total	$11,224,551.41

Extraordinary Expenses Incurred.

It must be borne in mind that this unparalleled condition of state finances exists in spite of extraordinary expenses growing out of emergencies of the present administration. The flood catastrophe of 1913 cost the state approximately $1,000,000. While all bills incurred in the year 1912 by the constitutional convention—legal advertising, etc.—were paid in 1913 for the reason that that was the first opportunity the legislature had of making the necessary appropriations. In addition to these matters, deficiencies authorized by the emergency board in 1912, amounting to $234,359.65, were taken care of the next year—1913—as had been the custom in the past. That the large balance has not been accumulated as the result of any neglect to the state institutions is shown by the provision which was made during 1913-14 for these several departments. During the biennium of 1913-14 there was disbursed for new buildings and lands for our universities, normal schools, state hospitals and correctional institutions $2,291,834.41. The items making up this total should be considered as betterments because the buildings for the most part are of fireproof construction and the lands will continue to grow in value. In 1909-10 the state spent for buildings and lands $1,774,358.76. In 1911-12 the disbursements for these purposes were $2,117,427.95; so that the present balance in the general revenue fund is emphasized when we consider that from it was taken in 1913-14 almost as much money for permanent betterments in behalf of state institutions as was provided in the previous four years. In order to correct a misapprehension which seems to be more or less general, not a dollar in the general revenue fund is derived by direct taxation. Inasmuch as public opinion, for or against governmental reforms, often develops from the logic of cost in dollars and cents to the individual, it is regrettable that a propaganda has been maintained in this state for the apparent mischievous purpose of bogging the public mind with reference to our real financial condition. The statement that a deficit existed in the treasury has been too absurd for consideration. Those who pursued that erroneous thought argued from the contention that against the cash balance in the treasury there should be figured the sum total of appropriations authorized by the general assembly. For illustration: It was said that if there were $10,000,000 in the treasury on the date that an appropriation bill became legally operative and the budget itself carried $11,000,000 to be expended with-

EARLY INVASION OF HUNGARY PREDICTED

Russian Host Swarming Over Carpathians --- Turks Make Headway in Russ Territory --- Germans Lose Battle of the Polish Rivers---French Capture Another Alsatian Town.

By Associated Press.
London, January 4.—Utterly irreconcilable are the claims of the contending armies in the east.

In the west the unprecedented wet weather precluded operation, which could give decided advantage to one side or the other.

The activities of the Turks in the Caucasus seem to be assuming an increasing importance, judging from the attention the Petrograd official communications are devoting to this region. Although not admitting that the Turks have been victorious it is conceded that they are fighting with great valor and stubbornness in the vicinity of the fortified town of Sari Kamysh.

The Turks claim to have taken this position. Russia, however, does not admit this and says the Turks have suffered enormous losses. Comparing the Turkish and Russian statements it would seem that the Turks, at the present time, are making some headway, although both sides are losing heavily as their troops flounder and fight through the deep snow in the bitter cold of these high altitudes.

The battle of the rivers, in Poland, has not yet come to an end. The Germans say they have taken Borjow, a strong Russian position east of Lowicz, and a step nearer Warsaw. This the Russians contradict flatly, saying that the German assaults there have been repulsed with heavy losses and that elsewhere they have been held at bay.

Petrograd professes to see the end of the battle of the Polish rivers and a concentration of German forces at some other strategic point in a renewed attempt to break through, but like the predictions of what this side or the other proposed to do in Belgium and France, this must be classed as a guess.

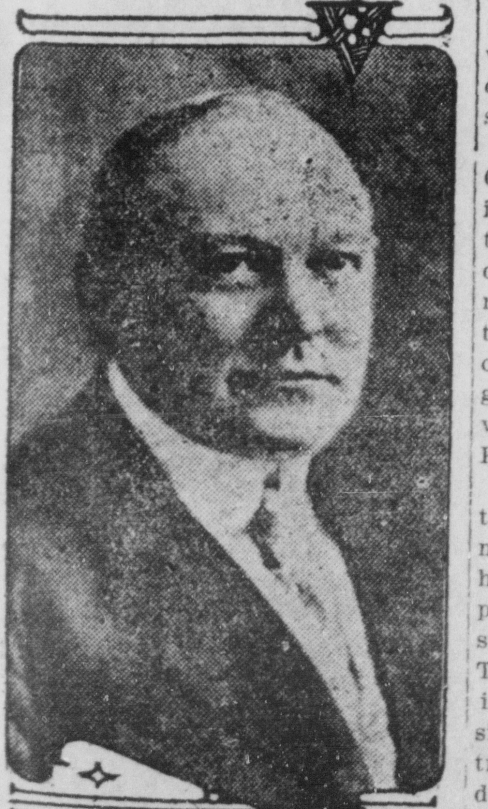

If it is true that the Russians have taken another pass over the Carpathian mountains, the invasion of Hungary in real force should, in the opinion of British observers, soon be a reality.

Further developments in Albania have been hanging fire since the Italian occupation of Avlona.

The capture by the French of Steinbach, a small Alsatian town near Thann, is admitted in today's statement from the Berlin War Office.

The advance of the French was preceded by an artillery bombardment which the German statement describes as "overwhelming", and which enabled the French to occupy

The Rexall OPEN TOM BLACKMER

ANNUAL OPT HOUSE

Between 350 and 400 guests are expected at the annual open house of the Rexall Blackmer company, which will be held at the company's headquarters, 1000 K Street, N. W., on Monday, January 12, at 2 o'clock. The company, which has been in existence for over 25 years, is one of the largest and most successful of its kind in the United States. Its products, which include a wide variety of household goods, are sold throughout the country. The company's success is due to its high quality of goods and its excellent service to its customers. The open house is a rare opportunity for the public to see the company's operations and to meet the company's management. It is also a chance for the company to thank its customers for their loyalty and support. The open house is free of charge and is open to all. It is a most interesting and profitable day for all who attend.

The genius of man has evolved principles of business in organization and accounting which clearly demonstrate the tremendous economic waste that flowed from old methods; and yet with no lingering scepticism of the new order, government has been unaccountably slow in departing from the beaten path. Within the last two years the budget department has been created by the state, and the gentleman in charge, Mr. Heffernan, brought to this very arduous responsibility, not only a broad and successful experience as an efficiency man and business expert, but he was trained in the methods of the bureau of municipal research in New York and came to us well equipped in budgetary work. In a recent report to the executive department he says:

"No commercial corporation, without reference to size, could survive a period of twelve months if its fiscal policy were the same as that which obtained in the state of Ohio prior to your incumbency in office. For an individual or corporation to continue business as the state of Ohio in the past has conducted her activities would mean bankruptcy."

First of all, it was found that the state had a fiscal year, an appropriation year, a college year and one department operating under the calendar year. The appropriation year began Feb. 16. The legislature assembled by constitutional provision the first Monday in January, and of necessity the appropriation bill has been prepared in haste in order to have it available on the 16th of February. As a result, the appropriation committees of the senate and house have never had sufficient time to analyze the estimates coming from the departments and to legalize disbursements in harmony with correct business principles.

Lump Sum Appropriations.
The fiscal year, under Section 260 of the general code, for all departments, institutions, public works and buildings of the state, ran from the 16th day of November to the 15th day of the next November, both inclusive. The appropriation year, as already noted, began Feb. 16 and ended Feb. 15. The last general assembly changed both the fiscal and the appropriation years, and the new fiscal and appropriation years began July 1 and ran until June 30. Inasmuch as the federal government has precisely the same arrangement and practically every state as well, comparisons can now be made with some guarantee of coherency. The old plan, too, has been unfavorable to the schools. The common schools, normal schools and universities begin in September and end in June. Under the old system comparisons were unsatisfactory, either in the consideration of enrollment or fiscal affairs, because a part of two years had to be taken into account. The time fixed for filing annual reports in midsummer is more advantageous for the reason that it is ordinarily the slack season. Under the old plan this work had to be done during a period of great departmental activity. Since its establishment as a state Ohio has made her appropriations in lump sum. There has never been a segregated budget. Its necessity was not so pressing in the days when the state was poor and the revenues were derived by direct taxation. Government was a smaller affair in the industrial and social activities. The approximate expense was easily computed and the direct tax levied on the state duplicate was made just large enough to meet the bills. Conditions, however, have changed. The state levy is only made for the universities, the school fund and what is known as the irreducible debt, the expenses of the departments being borne by excise or indirect taxation. Without the elements of vigilance, prudence and budgetary efficiency, a piecemeal treasury would be a curse to the state. It is important that each department, instead of receiving a lump sum, or inflexible specific appropriations, as they have in the past, be given flexible specific appropriations in the form of a segregated budget which will be submitted to you this year for the first time in the history of Ohio. An example of the lump sum appropriation is:

"Maintenance.....$100,000"

Of the inflexible specific appropriation:

"3 engineers.....$5,400"

Under practices of the past the legislature has acted largely upon the estimates of the departments. When the legislature is not in session the emergency board, consisting of the governor, attorney general, auditor and the respective chairmen of the senate and house finance committees, has the right to hold sessions and legalize disbursements from the treasury for pure emergencies. The departments, recognizing the restricted authority of the emergency board, have proceeded doubtless from the thought that it would be better to ask for ample sums and turn back the undistributed amount at the end of the fiscal year than to request a lesser amount that might be insufficient. This made department officers the custodians of funds which they could disburse without restraint or limitations so long as it was for the legitimate operations of the specific branch of the government; and if the evil of extravagance did not spring up, then it was no fault of the fiscal system to which we have held entirely too long. My experience as a member of the appropriations committee in the house of representatives at Washington, and in the station now occupied, leads me to the positive conviction that the tendency toward increased and excessive cost of government, national, state and local, grows entirely out of the failure to adopt a budgetary plan of appropriations and disbursements. Your honorable body is enabled this year to intelligently make specific appropriations. The law creating the budget department did not become operative until late in 1913, so that it was impossible to carry out our aims in making the appropriations for the current biennium. In its statement to me the budget department says:

Budget Department Reports.

"We have made surveys of every department of state receiving state aid. In addition to these financial surveys, a personal service record has been made of each and every employee in the state. These, while they may not be of material interest to you, are a guide to us in making our allowances for personal service to the various departments and provide us with a means of checking individual efficiency of the state employees. I would respectfully recommend to you that public hearings be had on all the estimates now in our hands. This, more than anything else, would bring about the ideal condition of cooperation."

I therefore urge upon the general assembly the exercise of the utmost care in voting appropriations. The budget is based upon a comprehensive inquiry into the needs of the service, and you should hesitate in exceeding it. Bear in mind at all times that the estimates of departments, generally speaking, include the element of desire and are not based entirely upon necessity. It may be urged that in making flexible specific appropriations, departments will be unable to deal with unforeseen contingencies that may arise. The answer to that is the suggestion that the powers of the emergency board be enlarged. The recent arrangement of making a fixed appropriation for the emergency board has worked so well that the old system ought never be re-established. While there were certain limitations placed upon the authority of the emergency board, there was none on the amount of money that could be disbursed; and besides, each recurring administration was called upon to pay the bills incurred by the emergency board in the preceding year. In 1913, for illustration, there fell to the record of expense of this administration the item of over $200,000 for disbursements made the year previous—1912. Under the scheme of making a fixed appropriation for the emergency board $200,000 was allotted and of this $117,862.75 was expended, leaving a balance of $82,137.25 on hand. It will therefore be seen that the emergency board, acting during this administration, will not transfer a dollar of cost to the incoming regime. I desire also to make the most urgent recommendation that the general assembly make no more deficiency appropriations. I have urged upon all state departments that no deficiencies would be recognized. No state official, in the first place, has any right under the law to incur a deficiency, and if any have developed, the responsibility should be turned back to the offending officer. Instructions from me have been so positive that I have both the hope and the belief that you will be enabled to establish the wholesome precedent against any deficiency appropriation bills.

The recurrent subject of the state erecting a building for the departments that are now renting their quarters is again presented. The records disclose that the statehouse became inadequate space in 1902, at which time the fish and game commission leased its rooms outside. Other departments were established in office buildings on the dates indicated:

Automobile Department.....1909
Board of Administration.....1912
Bureau of Banks and Banking.....1912
State Bindery.....1912

Board of State Charities.....1916
State Board of Health.....1907
Oil Inspector.....1906
Bureau of Vital Statistics.....1908
Fire Marshal.....1911
Fish and Game Commission.....1902
Highway Department.....1909
Industrial Commission.....1911
Public Utilities Commission.....1906
Tax Commission of Ohio.....1913
Legislative Reference Library.....1910

In the last two years the state board of health, which was paying $7,328.40 a year rent, was moved to the university, and that amount saved. The only additional quarters procured were for the civil service commission, the state liquor licensing board (these two branches have been established by constitutional changes), the building and loan department and the censor board, both of which are self-supporting through fee assessments fixed by law.

The state procures in interest on monies in the treasury something over $400,000 a year. It would be my suggestion that this be diverted for the purpose of erecting an office building for the state, and continued until the funds are sufficient to carry out the project. In this connection, thought should also be given to the idea of co-operating with the city of Columbus in creating a civic center. The whole state naturally has pride in the capital city, and the plans adopted would probably mean no additional financial outlay but would add to the ornate beauty of the city.

For many years there has been discussed the matter of providing a residence for the governor. In the old days the chief executive was not expected to live in Columbus, but came here only when the legislature was in session. The many responsibilities that join to the station necessitate his giving it now all of his time. In 1880 Governor Bishop, on retiring from office, called attention to what other states were doing and urged it upon our commonwealth, as a matter of plain duty.

To an Ohioan, at least, the position of governor of this state is second only in importance to the presidency of the republic. He who occupies this responsible station should live in a manner befitting the dignity of the place. This entails a considerable cost which the governor should not himself bear. Living as we are under a liberal democracy, our people frown upon pomp or display; and yet a calculated, deliberate, obtrusive and otherwise mockish simplicity is more offensive to our sensibilities than gaudy ceremonial. I have gone to the trouble of making inquiry from other states as to what they have done in this connection. I find that thirty-three commonwealths have provided homes for the chief executive. Every state of importance has done so and Ohio should no longer continue an obvious neglect of duty. On retirement from office I feel free in urging that the state make provision for my successor, either by the purchase of a suitable home or the building of one.

Flood Relief Report.

There is transmitted to the clerk of the house of representatives an accounting of all funds collected and disbursed in connection with the flood disaster in Ohio in 1913. The general assembly March 26, 1913, passed H. B. 683, appropriating money for the relief of flood sufferers; and on April 26, S. B. 287, which empowered the governor to select an Ohio flood relief commission, to be made up of five residents of the state, the duty of this organization being to aid the communities that were affected. Pursuant to this the commission was made up of the following gentlemen: John H. Patterson, Dayton; H. H. Johnson, Cleveland; J. G. Schmidlapp, Cincinnati; S. O. Richardson, Toledo, and G. W. Lattimer, Columbus. On May 19 Mr. Patterson resigned and his place was taken by E. A. Deeds of Dayton.

I want to bear simple testimony in behalf of the service rendered by these patriotic citizens. The call to duty met with immediate response and their interest was sustained throughout the whole work. Communities were visited at great personal inconvenience and the work of relief was organized at the outset with such efficiency that every local committee received what in its judgment the stricken people required. It was the largest project of its kind in the history of our state, and it is with uncommon gratification that we are enabled to transmit now a report which is in fact an audit, not only of every disbursement to the penny made by the commission, but by the local community treasurers as well.

Compensation Law Threatened.

The humane results of the workmen's compensation law have been so widespread and the wisdom of the people in changing the constitution so as to make this plan compulsory has been so completely demonstrated that manufacturer and employee now join in praise of the act. While the liability insurance companies contended that the state could not administer this trust and that the cost would run into millions of dollars per year, the experience of the first twelve months shows the cost of administration to be approximately $160,000; and the claims running far in excess of 50,000 in number have been adjudicated with such promptness as to justify the fullest measure of the soundness of the state plan. The balance in the fund Dec. 15, 1914, was $2,418,414.07. The number of accidents is diminishing and the cost to the employer is decreasing; so that both lower rates and larger compensation seem assured. As one who passed through the stormy period that led to the passage of this law, I urge upon you the extreme importance of the highest manifestations of vigilance, patriotism and humanity in order that the fundamentals of this beneficent legislation might be preserved. Under the pretext of improving the law it can be easily emasculated. Ohio assumed the lead in this legislation, and if the fundamental principle is maintained here, the plan, by its demonstrated worth, will be adopted elsewhere. This means the ultimate loss of ill-gotten millions by potential interests that have grown rich from the tears, blood and maimed bodies of our working people. They will not give it up without a continued struggle. Your duty to humanity and to our state calls for extreme watchfulness.

Predicts Educational Revival.

The subject of education should always be transcendent in the aims and purposes of those in authority. The state of things in the world today demonstrates the inevitable establishment of many more republics. We not only live in the blessings of geographical isolation from the lands of trouble and tears, but we enjoy as well the benefits flowing from institutions built upon the sovereign will of our people. Worldwide evolutions are now upon us. Civilization may be compelled to face an unprecedented test, and it behooves us, therefore, to see to it that behind the suffrage expression of our people is a constantly improved standard and an enlarged measure of education. Every child in this state should have the opportunity of good school advantages. They have not had in the past in some sections. The depths of neglect and inefficiency to which the school system has drifted in some remote sections is not only a reproach upon a state as resourceful as ours, but a tragedy as well. I renew with undiminished enthusiasm an appeal in behalf of the rural sections and urge only forward steps in education. We have gained too much to have it lost. Folks have tasted the benefits of a modern rural system of education and rural life can only be stimulated by our facing the right direction. Good roads and good schools must continue to be our slogan. They go hand in hand and the improved facilities growing out of the present program will cost less than the old, while the social and economic advantages can not be approximated. In the past two years the state contracted for the construction of 650 miles of modern highways—classified by materials used as follows:

Brick.....189 miles
Concrete.....351 miles
Macadam.....310 miles

There is manifest awakening, not only with respect to the permanent improvement of the highways, but interest in the relative merits of material, and methods of transforming bad roads, at small expense seems general. The working out of a more efficient school system has given gratifying impetus to the highway movement because better facilities for transportation enter as an important factor.

Previous to Sept. 1, 1912, there were but 192 centralized school districts in Ohio. In two years' time 242 have been legally authorized; and within the next four weeks elections will be had upon twenty-five new projects. While the centralization of schools is of great importance, the new school law, which empowers county boards of education to redistrict the various counties for school purposes, is doing even a greater good as many districts have already been in part transferred to adjoining ones and the smaller part left has been added to others by a vote of the electors concerned. It is indeed a great movement, making not only for decreased cost of education per child, but vastly improved facilities, as well as better trained teachers.

In this connection it seems to me that some plan should be devised of so conducting our three universities as to make them co-operative. Doubtless the trustees of the three boards could devise a scheme which would work a benefit to each institution. There should be discouraged any movement calculated to generate animosity as between them. There is a useful sphere for them all.

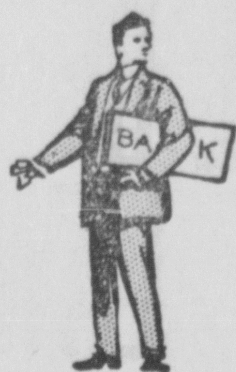

It is my further observation that more girls' dormitories should be built at the universities. Under the system in vogue their maintenance costs nothing, as they are self-supporting. They provide a home and protection for young women whose aims and aspirations bring them to the college seats.

Congratulates All Ohioans.

Altogether, at the beginning of a new year and a new governmental regime in the state, we should all felicitate ourselves as proud citizens of a great commonwealth that our fiscal condition is healthy beyond precedent; that industrial justice and peace have been wrought by the workmen's compensation law, which has removed the courts from the zone of distrust and re-established them in the confidence of the people; that we are dedicating our efforts in larger measure to education so that the boy and girl in remote locations back on the mud road see the manifestations of interest on the part of his and her government in their educational and material welfare; that taxes, on the average, were lower at the last tax-paying time in December than ever before. We are fortunate to have sprung from the loins of a citizenship that build up such a state, located in the choicest place of all the world's domains—a rich heritage indeed. We are not only, therefore, a proud people, but we should be a contented and happy people as well.

GERMANS GO TO THE RESCUE OF AUSTRIANS

Troops Sent South to Relieve Hard Pushed Austrians.

VON HINDENBURG'S MEN ACTIVE

Attempting to Create a Diversion Which Will Compel Grand Duke Nicholas to Turn His Attention Again to the Defense of Warsaw, Russians Harassing Retreating Austrians in Galicia.

London, Jan. 4.—The defeat of the Austrians in the eastern part of Galicia and the increasing pressure of the Russians on the forces defending the Cracow front have apparently caused a change of plan in the German operations.

It is reported from Petrograd that German troops have been sent south to relieve the hard pushed Austrian armies, and that in Poland Marshal Von Hindenburg is attempting to create a diversion which will compel the Grand Duke Nicholas to turn his attention again to the defense of Warsaw.

The official statement in Petrograd by the Russian press says that the Austrian army, on the character of a Russian army, are giving rest in western Galicia.

are also being punished severely, especially in the region of Gorlice, east of Cracow. The fighting at that point is still undecided, but the Russians are said to have the advantage. The Austrian and German armies are believed to have joined their lines to the northeast of Cracow. The Germans are apparently defending the roads to the north and the Austrians appear to be guarding the approach from the northeast and east.

The Russian official statement reads: "On the Buzza and Rava rivers we are continuing the successful repulse of German attacks in spite of the enemy's heavy artillery fire and bomb throwing. On the road to Wloszczowa, in the Kielce region of western Galicia, at the village of Lopuszowa, German troops after a stubborn battle took possession of a portion of our trenches, but a later counter attack by our troops forced the enemy to abandon all the Germans previously occupied. During this engagement we captured several hun-

Now Go And Get Busy

The prophecies for a speedy and permanent revival of business conditions—a return of prosperity—have been so general during the last thirty days that there is no longer any doubt expressed by business men as to the future.

In fact the statements that better business conditions throughout the country are near at hand is being replaced by the cheering announcement that better times are here.

As a matter of fact the news columns are each day recording the resumption of business by this or that plant that has been idle. The encouraging news that thousands of men in the industrial centers are going back to work in the factories and shops where wheels have not turned for months and where the gloomy silence of the closed factory has held domain too long already.

No one has yet undertaken to give a satisfactory explanation to the public for the era of hard times through which the nation has just passed and from which it is now emerging. Every condition which should be a guarantee of prosperous times seems to have existed and yet factory after factory has closed and thousands of men have been out of employment.

The satisfactory why, for the existence of those conditions has yet to be furnished. In fact all of the whys are in favor of the existence of just the opposite condition.

When reasons are sought for, about the most satisfactory one announced so far is that these hard times are psychological. That doesn't convey to the man without work any comfort, but if the men who "get scared" at their shadows can only be brought to realize that that is the fact, the substantial results following a revival of business cannot long be delayed.

In this city and county we know but little of the effect of business stagnation and only suffer on account of its existence indirectly.

All farm products are commanding big prices and that means prosperity here.

With the coming of the new year experts agree that business activity has actually arrived.

It is due and past due. All conditions are more favorable for the existence of an abundant and universal prosperity in this country during the coming year than ever before in our history.

The only thing that the merchants and the business men need do is turn psychology round about face and push their business. Enlarge plants and increase the output, increase the stocks of merchandise and get things moving. The business is bound to come.

It can't help it.

We have to take care of ourselves and half the civilized world beside, war or no war, for some time to come.

Give Credit When Its Due.

Senator-elect Warren G. Harding in his public speeches last week vigorously indorsed the new school laws of Ohio and expressed himself as heartily in favor of every movement which had for its purpose, strengthening the efficiency of the schools of the state.

Senator Harding is right. Every thinking man and woman in the Buckeye state stands for bringing the public schools to the highest standard of efficiency and maintaining them on the plane which will produce the best results. The announcement in favor of efficiency in the public schools, however, by the distinguished Marion editor is only general and is one to which even politicians could and would openly subscribe.

It is the open approval of the present school laws of Ohio by the senator-elect, which is of more interest.

The only criticism that can be urged against the senator-elect is that having delayed his utterances on that subject until this late date, he is quite likely to be suspected by some folks with having played cheap politics a little during the last campaign.

While it is quite probable, in view of his announcement last week, that Mr. Harding did not, during the campaign, openly condemn the Ohio school laws and advocate their repeal or amendment, it is certain that he did not openly indorse those laws as he does now.

While it may not have been the part of political wisdom to do so yet there are a great many folks in Ohio who would have thought a great deal more of Mr. Harding if he had not remained silent while his partisans were in public speech and printed pamphlet denouncing the same school laws and condemning those responsible for their enactment.

These folks do not condemn Mr. Harding particularly, but they regret that the rules of practical politics as played in this country not only countenance a candidate's refusal to give a political opponent credit for good accomplished, but really compel such a course.

The candidate who dares in campaign time to credit his opponent with good accomplished or even with good intentions is courting defeat for himself and his colleagues.

Perhaps Mr. Harding would have been glad to give credit where credit was due, even before the election—perhaps he would rather have spoken then in favor of these school laws of Ohio than to wait until weeks after the election, but to do so would have been political folly and the senator-elect is an able man who doesn't commit foolish blunders.

Wouldn't it be splendid if public servants were only criticised—even in campaigns—for the thing they desire to be criticised for and given credit even in campaigns by political opponents for the good things they do

Mr. Harding is entering the public service now and perhaps when he is a candidate for re-election, practical politics will have changed and his opponent will publicly give him credit for the many good things he will do as senator from Ohio.

Poetry For Today

IF I COULD.

If the world were mine I would give to you
One half of the green and one half of the blue;
You should have of ocean and land and sky
Exactly as much, my good friend, as I.

If only the gold of the world were mine
I would lump it all in its sheen and shine,
And cutting the smallest coin in two,
Divide, to a penny, my wealth with you.

If all life's good fortune were in my hold,
On your path, my friend, it would soon unfold.
You should share with me in the things that bless,
Till naught could add to your happiness.

As I own no fraction of sea or land,
And gold is never within my hand,
I can only share, my good friend, with you,
The cheer of knowing what I would do.

COPPER GROWING SCARCE IN GERMANY

Berne, Jan. 4.—The scarcity of copper in Germany is becoming a very serious problem. Evidence of this is seen in dispatches from Berlin which state that all copper telegraph and cable wires are to be taken down, and that acetylene is to be substituted for electric lighting. It is also reported that the Germans have removed the great bronze gates at the railway station in Antwerp.

WOULD INCREASE ARMY AND NAVY

British Official In Public Speech Hints at Conscription.

RECRUITING BOOM CONTINUES

Wet Weather Causing Floods In the River Valleys of the Continent. Preventing Operations on a Large Scale on the Western Battle Front. Heavy Artillery Engagements Noted All Along Line.

London, Jan. 4.—A hint that the British government contemplated the introduction of conscription for increasing the army and navy was dropped by Thomas J. MacNamara, parliamentary secretary to the admiralty, while speaking at the Browning settlement. Referring to the fact that there were many thousands of young men in the United Kingdom without dependents, who had not answered the call to the colors, Mr. MacNamara said: "If they think they are going to enjoy a life of freedom at the other fellows' expense they won't enjoy it much longer." The recruiting boom, which commenced after the holidays, continues.

ENGLAND'S ATTITUDE

Washington, Jan. 4.—That Great Britain intends to assert what she regards as her rights in the shipping controversy and other questions affecting the commerce of the United States was indicated pretty clearly by developments here.

One of the questions that has been worrying American manufacturers is the British embargo on the shipment of rubber. Complaint has been made that the employment of 250,000 workmen in the United States is jeopardized and they are confronted with the probability of famine prices for rubber goods.

Great Britain's answer to these public complaints was contained in a statement issued by the British embassy here. The statement said: "Negotiations are proceeding in London with a view to removing the embargo on rubber against a pledge not to export, similar to that arranged with regard to German aniline dyes. The negotiations have been retarded by the discovery of shipments of rubber from this country to Europe under disguise."

MANY FIREMEN HURT IN FIRE

Philadelphia, Jan. 4.—More than twenty firemen were overcome and others injured and had to be taken to hospitals during a fire which destroyed the immense lumber yard of the Charles Este company and wiped out eighteen dwellings. The blaze will result in a loss estimated at $1,000,000. The flames, starting in one corner of the lumber yard, were fanned by a twenty mile wind and quickly spread to all parts of the yard and attacked the offices and storehouses, situated at the farther end. Then the fire jumped across the street and quickly consumed the dwellings there and swept around to the other side and destroyed several more houses. All the occupants escaped with their lives, but lost all their belongings.

Why Let a Terrible Cough Hang On and Wear You Out?

Loosen Its Grip with that Wonderful Throat and Lung Medicine, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound.

Coughs that "hang on" mostly settle on the lungs, and they fairly eat the life out of you. They use up your strength, lower your vitality, and pave the way for serious lung and bronchial diseases.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND leaves healing behind it as it glides down your throat. It covers raw, inflamed, irritated surfaces with a soothing healing coating. It stops the racking, tearing cough, and causes steady wheezy breathing.

WILL G. RICHMOND, Ingleswood, Cal., says: "FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR acts so well in harmony with nature, it is more like a food than a medicine."

E. J. SARGENT, Dallas, Texas, writes: "I had a terrible cough which words will not describe. I spent much money and tried many kinds of treatment, but found nothing which would cure me. At last I tried FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR and it completely relieved me of all bad symptoms and my cough entirely disappeared."

For all coughs, colds, croup, bronchial affections, la grippe, coughs, throat and lung trouble, you will find it a medicine without a peer. Every good druggist is glad to sell it, for it gives satisfaction to his customers and contains no opiates. You cannot get a substitute to do for you what FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR will do. 25c, 50c, $1.00 sizes.

U. S. THIRD NAVAL POWER

Washington, Jan. 4.—Naval experts in Washington have thrown up their hands in despair over the task of calculating officially the present relative strength of the British, German and United States navies, but approximate figures indicate that in total warship tonnage the British, notwithstanding their losses, are more than twice as strong as the Germans, while in battleship tonnage the Germans have a trifle more than half as much as the British navy. The relative strength of the United States has hardly been affected one way or the other by the war developments. She ranked as the third naval power before the war and is still in third place.

GOVERNOR WHITMAN WOULD CUT WASTE

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 4.—Governor Whitman intends to probe state departments to find out how many jobs can be cut out and what reforms can be instituted, rather than unearth wrongdoing and enter upon criminal prosecutions. It was said by a close friend of the governor. The governor wants to show that he no longer is a prosecuting officer and will do what he can to build up the state government in accordance with the promises made in his inaugural address. The governor will permit department heads who are in accordance with his views to make their own investigations and report to him what ought to be done to cut out waste and keep down expenses. The first office to come under the surveillance of the governor will be that of the state engineer.

LAWYER DENIES HELPING GERMANS

Philadelphia, Jan. 4.—Maurice Deiches, the New York lawyer arrested at the home of a friend here on a federal warrant charging conspiracy in procuring fraudulent passports for Germans eager to leave this country to fight for their own, appeared before United States Commissioner Long and entered $25,000 bail for his appearance later. In an interview he declared his alleged connection with the passport plot was a revelation to him and that he had not the slightest doubt but that he would be able to quickly clear himself of all responsibility or connection with the affair.

POLICE CHIEF MOORE MAKES GOOD RECORD

An annual report taken from an examination of the local police docket shows that during the year 1914, 271 arrests were made. This may be considered a very good record for Chief of Police Moore's first year of incumbency.

A comparison of the docket shows that during the two years of the previous administration, 446 arrests, in all, were made, an average of 223 yearly.

Of the arrests made during the one year of Chief Moore's administration, 35 were bootlegging charges, of these 33 were brought to trial and in each case pleas of guilty were entered. The other two, those of Hays and Til Taylor, have not yet been finished in the court.

Chief Moore received a letter of congratulation a few days ago from Chief of Police Carter, of Columbus, commending his successful administration.

CITY WILL USE THE COUNTY JAIL

The city will continue to use the county jail for all prisoners held.

This has been decided definitely, the commissioners having no serious objection to housing the city prisoners, since the city pays a liberal fee for such privilege, and Sheriff Jones is not averse to a continuance of the custom.

This will relieve the city of the necessity of erecting a new prison building, or placing one in the engine house.

TIGERS WIN IN THE DECEMBER CONTEST

With the conclusion of the month of December the Y. M. C. A. Boys' department committee announces the Tiger team of the department victor for the month in the merit and demerit contests.

During the month the Tigers secured 145 merits—136 spiritual and 9 mental—and but 10 demerits. The Tigers will be entertained at a banquet in the Y. M. C. A. dining rooms Tuesday evening.

The reason for the great number of spiritual merits is that the boys of this team have been devoting a great deal of time recently to Bible study, which comes under this head.

NEW HISTORY OF FAYETTE

The new history of Fayette county is off the press, and is being delivered to those who subscribed for the publication. It is an exceptionally handsomely bound volume, 11 by 8 by 2 inches, containing 755 pages. The volume is printed on a good quality of paper and in addition to the handsome binding, is of a most durable quality, intended for long and hard usage.

The new history is probably the most complete ever issued and is edited by Mr. Frank M. Allen, and published by B. F. Bowen & Company, of Indianapolis, Ind. It is profusely illustrated, and in addition to a history of many of the leading families of the county, is replete with history of the county's industries and institutions.

The biographical sketches of representative citizens and genealogical records of old families, are of deep interest, and the work is one which will be treasured by all who have been fortunate enough to obtain copies.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, and burial in the Washington cemetery.

ANOTHER BURGLARY IN HEART OF CITY

Some time during Saturday night a burglar entered the residence of Attorney H. H. Sanderson, on E. Court street, and after extracting some $18 from a pocket of Mr. Sanderson's clothing, escaped without arousing the household.

The burglar entered the house by placing a ladder to the bathroom window, and raising the unfastened window sufficiently to permit easy entrance.

The man evidently did not spend much time in the house, and was, to all appearances, not unfamiliar with the interior of the residence. No clew was left behind for successful work of the police.

OHIO ASSEMBLY GETS UNDER WAY

Nearly Every Member in His Seat
When Gavels Fall

SESSION TO RUN FOUR MONTHS

Lieutenant Governor Greenlund Presides Over the Senate at the First Session, While Secretary Graves Opens Proceedings in the House. Organization of Each Branch is Effected With Dispatch.

Columbus, Jan. 4.—The Eighty-first General assembly convened at 10 o'clock this morning for its regular session with nearly every member in his seat.

The session is expected to be of the usual four months' duration. For the first time in six years both branches have a Republican majority. Not only have the Republicans a good working majority in both senate and house, but their legislative leaders say they feel assured of sufficient aid from the anti-state administration Democrats to command a two-thirds majority needed to attach emergency clauses to bills so they may become operative at once instead of being inoperative for ninety days to give opportunity for filing referendum petitions.

Lieutenant Governor William A. Greenlund presided at the first session of the new senate. Secretary of State Charles H. Graves opened the session of the house. The effecting of the organization of each house and the reading of the final message of Governor Cox was the chief business of the first session. Appointments of standing committees by the senate committee on committees and by Speaker Charles D. Conover will be deferred until next week.

It is planned to adjourn this evening for the week, and to postpone beginning the real work of legislation until after the inauguration of Governor Willis next Monday. The governor-elect will arrive Saturday, coming direct from Washington.

Almost every member has a pet bill or two ready for the legislative hopper, but most of these attempts to swell the general code were of minor import.

Probe Planned.

At least one legislative investigation is planned. The farmer members, who are in control in both branches, will insist upon an investigation of the state agricultural commission, in particular of its conduct of the cattle quarantine. Resolution to make this probe will be among the early offerings.

As to temperance legislation, Superintendent W. B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon league made this statement: "The Anti-Saloon league will not introduce or be sponsor for any license bill in this general assembly. There are a number of very bad provisions in the present law, however, which we hope will be remedied; for instance, the provision which makes the brewer a privileged outlaw, paying no state tax and taking out no state license. The league has always opposed putting the license granting power into the hands of the common pleas judges. It corrupts the judiciary and cripples law enforcement. A judge who grants a license to a saloonkeeper, certifying he is of good moral character, is slow to convict the same saloonkeeper when he comes before the court for violating the law."

With the selection of John F. Kramer of Richland county as the Democratic minority floor leader, the drys clinched their claim of supremacy in the house. Both Kramer and Speaker Conover are avowedly dry men.

Miss Mary Turner, who has served for several years, was chosen for house stenographer, and John Quinlisk of Franklin county for page.

Speaker Conover and the various officials of the house selected by the Republican caucus were duly installed. John F. Kramer, choice of the Democratic caucus for speaker, received the full vote of his party.

DUE TO WEIGHT OF LAKE ERIE

Cleveland, Jan. 4.—A scientific explanation of a mysterious tilting of the earth's crust along the shore of Lake Erie, a phenomenon which, unknown to most people, may have seriously affected the adjustment of delicate instruments, was discovered by Father Frederick Odenbach, astronomer at St. Ignace college.

The "leaning," which is a regular thing, according to the local savant, is caused by nothing more mysterious than an increase in the weight of Lake Erie. The priest found that the difference between the weight of a cubic foot of water in summer and in winter is .110 pound and that the total weight of the water in the lake in February was 1,378,980,800 tons greater than in August.

SURVIVORS TELL THRILLING TALES OF EXPERIENCES

Escaped In Life Boat From the Battleship Formidable.

London, Jan. 4.—Additional details obtained from survivors of the British battleship Formidable, sunk off the coast of Devonshire Friday, enhance the horror of the disaster and the privations suffered by men of the crew. The launching of the boat in which these survivors left the vessel was accomplished with the utmost difficulty. The heavy sea rocked the battleship constantly and one boat was smashed against the bridge.

Immediately after the launching the officer in charge shouted to the men to make for two liners whose lights were just visible, seven miles away, but they were unable to find the liners. The crew was without food or water. A majority of the men were dressed only in their night clothes. A part of a blanket was ripped off and fixed to an oar and was then used as a distress signal. This acted, too, as a semi-sail.

But for three petty officers the men would all have perished. They kept urging the crew to keep awake, for as soon as a man dropped asleep the exposure killed him. Not for eighteen hours did the men see a light ashore. The rescue boat contained sixty-six men when it left the Formidable. Twelve who died from exposure were buried at sea, six others were found dead at the bottom of the boat at the end of the voyage, and three have died since landing.

BIG MAJORITY FOR IMMIGRATION BILL

Washington, Jan. 4.—The immigration bill, containing the restrictive literacy test for admission of aliens, which has been the obstacle in immigration reform legislation for the greater part of two national administrations, passed the senate by a vote of 50 to 7. The overwhelming majority was recorded despite the fact that President Wilson had indicated he would veto the measure if it should come to him with the educational test included.

KAISER REPLIES TO HOLY RULER

Amsterdam, Jan. 4.—A dispatch from Berlin announces that the German general staff has given out the text of telegrams which passed between Pope Benedict and the kaiser regarding the exchange of prisoners who were incapable of further military service. The kaiser made the following reply to the pope's request: "I thank your holiness for your dispatch. The proposal meets with complete sympathy and its charitable words are fully in accord with my own wishes."

C. H. & D. TO WITHDRAW ALL SUNDAY PASSENGER TRAINS

Retrenchment Plan, Which Was Started About the Time New Freight Depot in This City Was Changed to Sheet Steel Structure, Becomes More Drastic in Its Effect Upon Citizens All Along the Line.

Following its retrenchment plan, instituted about the time the proposed modern brick freight house in this city was changed to one of framework covered with sheet steel, the C. H. & D. railroad has just announced that after next Sunday and until further notice, the four Sunday passenger trains on the Wellston division of the road will be withdrawn, so that it will be impossible to go in either direction on the road at any time on Sundays.

The announcement made by the receivers of the much jugged road is to the effect that owing to lack of patronage it has been deemed necessary to withdraw the four passenger trains which for years have been run on Sundays, and which, usually, have been well patronized, both by local residents and citizens all along the line.

The notice of withdrawal also states that, in all probability, the service will be restored after the winter months pass.

MEMOIR.

The subject of this memoir, Mr. John A. Everhart, was born in Ross county, Ohio, October 23, 1842, and departed this life December 29, 1914, aged 72 years, 2 months and 6 days.

He was the son of John Everhart, a German, who came to Ohio in his early years, and of Eliza Darling, who was born at Harpers Ferry, Va. To these young people whose married lives were spent in Ohio, were born nine children, four sons and five daughters, of whom the subject of this sketch was the sixth child of this large family, but three are living.

Born and reared near Bainbridge, Ohio, Mr. Everhart with his father's family, in 1860, moved to Fayette county, where, excepting three years spent near Greenfield, Ohio, he dwelt the remainder of his life. At his country's call during the civil war, he became a member of Company C, 32nd O. V. I., in which organization as a faithful soldier he served his country and his flag.

After the war he was united in marriage in 1866 to Miss Emma Moore. To this union were born eleven children, nine sons and two daughters, five dying in infancy. Those remaining to mourn his loss are Wesley and Leslie, of Greenfield; Edgar, of Middletown, Ohio; Willard and daughter, Pearl, of Washington C. H., and Thomas, of Lees Creek, O., besides thirteen grand-children. Many years with his wife he industriously spent on the farm rearing his family.

Though not a member of church, yet in many ways he led an exemplary life, being a kind father and husband who desired his family to lead honest, Christian lives. As a neighbor and friend he won a tender place in the hearts of his fellowmen.

With a hatred of sham, he was quick to know the true from the false; with a friendly greeting he met all men on a common plane of brotherhood.

But time has run his course. The hands that so often were given in the service of others are still, but their life work still remains. This life of

When the new order goes into effect the C. H. & D. railroad will be the only one of the four passing through this city which will not run two or more passenger trains on Sundays. The D. T. & I. will no longer be the road offering the poorest passenger service—it has two passenger trains on Sundays, the Pennsylvania has two, and the B. & O. has six.

The retrenchment plan of the C. H. & D. has been attracting no little attention all along the western division where section men have been laid off and steps taken generally which sap the efficiency of the road. The action of the road in giving this city a makeshift freight house instead of a modern and substantial structure which it was represented would be erected here, has caused no little comment among local business men, who, together with the city council, understood (until after certain franchise rights were granted) that the freight house would be modern in every way, and one in keeping with the city.

By eliminating the Sunday train service the great amount of visiting between residents of this city and Dayton and intermediate points, must cease on Sundays, and many will be greatly disappointed by the withdrawal of the passenger service.

service is the hope of life eternal. In the quiet of midnight, his soul peacefully departed to be with those he loved. As a weary traveler he at last returned to the bosom of his Father and his God.

Hartman Theater

WEEK OF JANUARY 11TH, 1915.

Great interest is being manifested in the forthcoming engagement of Margaret Anglin in her special revival production of Oscar Wilde's comedy drama, "Lady Windemere's Fan", at the Hartman theatre, Columbus, Tuesday and Wednesday, January 12-13th, with matinee Wednesday. Miss Anglin is one of America's foremost actresses. She has demonstrated her remarkable talents in the comedies of Shakespeare, as well as in the great tragedies of the Greek masters, but it is as an emotional actress that she is best appreciated. In Miss Anglin, the theatrical art finds its highest expression in the most remote extremes. Her success in the exacting role of Mrs. Erynn, in "Lady Windemere's Fan", was so remarkable last season in New York—where the play ran for upwards of three months—that she resolved to employ it as her exclusive vehicle this season, and it will be presented here with the same detail of production and complete equipment that merited unqualified praise in New York. She will be supported by a company of exceptional merit, many of whom were identified with the New York run of the play.

"The Quaker Girl", a dainty, wholesome, refreshing and humorous musical comedy, will be the attraction at the Hartman theatre, Columbus, Friday and Saturday January 15-16th, with matinee Saturday. This piece has the sort of music and comedy that attracts to the theatre

NEW YORK WORLD BRANDS TAYLOR THE REAL FEATURE

When Will Taylor, local athlete, broke the world's junior championship for standing broad jump in Brooklyn Tuesday night he created a sensation among some of the biggest athletic circles in the United States.

Taylor established a record in the national indoor junior championship meet Tuesday with a standing broad record-breaking jump of 10 feet and 8 inches.

Commenting on Taylor's feat the New York World says: "W. H. Taylor, of the Illinois A. C. added five inches to the standing broad jump record."

"The jump by Taylor was the feature of the meet. This rangy lad from the west outclassed his opponents in his very first leap, when he equalled the figures of 10 feet 3 inches. With each of his subsequent jumps he showed improvement until he had reached the unprecedented record figures for juniors of 10 feet 8 inches."

Platt Adams, all around champion athlete of the United States, did 10 feet 8 inches in a meet Saturday night, jumping in spiked shoes. Taylor made the jump in ordinary gym shoes.

Taylor, in a communication to his trainer, Physical Director J. W. McClung, of the local Y. M. C. A., states that he is anxious to get a contest with Adams, believing that he can outdistance him.
